DANGER PAST IN GODOWN BLAZE, FIREMEN THINK

Theatening Walls Felled And Brigade Still At Work

HIGH WIND IS PERIL

Fans Wreckage To Flame; Chinese Insurance Rates Up

The waste silk, soaked with water and then steamed through by the heat from beneath, kept bursting into flame and sending up showers of sparks which were skirled away by the wind. The flour mill at the Northeast corner of the ruined block was a particular object of attention on the part of the firemen, most of its windows having been shattered by the heat of Friday morning's blaze.

Last night, however, it was felt that the danger of a further spread of the destruction had been practically obviated and though it is expected that the mass of wreckage will be afire for some days yet it is not believed that anything further than the pouring of more water into the heaps of silk and other smouldering commodities will be necessary.

Great vigilance is being kept by the Fire Brigade, nevertheless, to ward off possibility of a secondary outbreak.

According to a notice published by the Kiangsu Bank, considerable of the cargo stored in godown No. 63, on North Soochow Road, has been damaged, and owners of the goods have been requested to call at the godown and inspect their stocks. It was also announced yesterday in the Chinese press that the Ministry of Home Affairs at Peking had instructed the Shanghai authorities to try and ascertain definitely the loss occasioned by the fire.

INSNRANCE CONFUSION

Latest estimates do not minimise the original figure reported—that of Tls. 10,000,000—but there is a good deal of confusion over the tabulation of the insurance figures.

Insurance men state that there are so many branches and subagencies of the various lines that it will be some time before a definite and final statement can be given out. To date over Tls. 8,000,000 in insurance have been accounted for, but it is declared that when all the returns are in the amount will be well over ten million taels.

The origin of the fire is still in doubt but there were a number of ugly rumors about the Settlement over the week end. The fact that the second block of buildings, which were to windward of the block in which the fire was first observed, burst into flame while the firemen were engaged with the first blaze has caused considerable comment. Firemen who were engaged in fighting the fire from the rear of the first affected godowns are positive that the second blaze could not have started from sparks carried from the building on which they were concentrating their attention.

Partly as a consequence of the fire Chinese insurance rates are going up. It had been decided to raise the Chinese rates even previous to the disaster, but it is likely that they will hit a higher figure as a consequence of it.

BRIGADE KEPT BUSY

The tearing down of dangerous walls and the continued damping down of the still burning mass of debris which are all that remains on the site of the city's great godown fire of last Friday, kept sections of the Fire Brigade and of the Public Works Department busy yesterday.

Both on Sunday and yesterday a high wind militated against the efforts of the firemen to keep the fire in check and even as late as last night extreme vigilance had to be exercised to see that the blaze did not extend to surrounding buildings which as yet have been unaffected.

The rear wall of the only remaining godown in the Soochow Road block of buildings collapsed at a point half-way to the roof's ridge yesterday, a portion of the roof also coming down in addition to the gable of the wall. Fortunately, however, the greater part of the cargo stored in the building had been removed from the upper floors and this undoubtedly had much to do with the fact that there was no further damage. The building in question is that located at No. 63 North Soochow Road, controlled by the Kiangsu Bank.

During the day a large gang of coolies from the Public Works department worked with steel hawsers and blocks and tackle to bring down the towering walls, which were a menace to traffic and to the opposite buildings along the Thibet Road side of the burnt area. The felling of the

HOOVER TELLS PROGRAM FOR AIDING TRADE

Service, Instead Of Regulation, To Be Slogan Of Department

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, March 12th.—Mr. Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, has issued a statement outlining the future policy of his department as follows:—

(1) Service, not regulation, of trade and industry;

(2) Promotion of commerce with the co-operation of trade organisations;

(3) An effort to push foreign commerce along the lines of closer relations between the United States and other countries;

(4) Discouragement of further burdens on the taxpayer.

Mr. Hoover declares that the United States must face European competition with the determination to work harder, eliminate waste, improve the processes of production, improve labour relationships—in a word, improve the national efficiency. For purposes of foreign trade, railway and marine transport must be considered as one problem.

It is authoritatively stated that President Harding's policy in regard to the settlement of problems arising from the war, will not differ materially from ex-President Wilson's. London, March 13th.—Appalling possibilities of warfare from the air in the future are suggested by the claim of an officer of the United States Chemical Warfare Service that a liquid poison has been discovered, three drops of which will kill anybody whose skin it touches.

Falling like rain from nozzles attached to the aeroplane, it will kill practically everyone in its path. It is declared that the supply of necessary raw-materials for the preparation of this poison is practically unlimited.

FAMINE APPEAL TO ALL SHANGHAI MADE IN DRIVE

Systematised Task Of Asking For Funds To Continue Through Week

COLORFUL PARADE

Thousands See Demonstration To Create Interest In Cause

Following the mass meeting in the Town Hall with which Shanghai's great famine relief drive was opened last Friday night and the spectacular parade of Sunday afternoon, the real systematised work of collecting funds to aid the starving sufferers in the north was begun yesterday and is to continue through the week.

Indications are not lacking that the big parade of Sunday still is carrying its full effect into all corners of Shanghai, particularly among the Chinese, for yesterday substantial additions were made to the fund of $740,000 that was raised when the mass meeting was held.

PARADE IS COLORFUL

Mr. Chu Pao-san and Mr. S. X. Loh with a staff of aids were marshals of Sunday's parade, in the line of march of which were no less than seven military bands, all Chinese. In the first portion of the line of march was a large representation of the Chamber of Commerce and the various trade organisations and Chinese guilds also were represented. Several of the girls' schools were in the procession, the length of which was swelled by some thousands of students.

As the pageants, after forming on Thibet Road turned and lengthened out on its march toward the Bund on Avenue Edward VII, it presented the aspect of a long living stream of waving flags and banners, wholly colorful in effect. Throughout the long line of march along Avenue Edward VII, thence south on the French Bund to Avenue du Consulat, thence to the Boulevard Montigny and southward to the Ningpo Guild and on through the Boulevarde des Deux Republics to the end at East Gate, massed thousands on either side of the street stood and absorbed the message borne by the vast throng of marchers.

And this message was tellingly illustrated, for important features of the parade were the thirty floats, each of which told its own story, picturing vividly and with grim realism phases of the awful disaster that has come upon the people of the North.

OTHER DETAILS

Besides these floats with their living characters were others bearing large pictured illustrations of conditions in the stricken provinces and banners with inscriptions of all sizes were flown literally by the thousands.

Several units of the fire department took part and a wholly distinctive feature were the troops of Boy Scouts who were out 500 strong. While the parade was passing traffic was suspended on the thoroughfares it traversed.

The work of the drive that is now in progress consists of a systematised effort to carry the appeal for aid into every remote corner of Shanghai and this is to be done through the week in a painstaking canvass of every quarter.

This work is being carried out by volunteers from the Students' Union working in teams and the purpose is to visit every home and every business establishment. The American Chamber of Commerce already has directed an appeal to its members to aid in the drive upon which the efforts of every one of the 22 famine relief organisations of Shanghai have been concentrated.

CLOSING EVENT SATURDAY

Steps are being taken to keep the drive vividly before the public eye by means of stereopticon pictures and other illustrations to be shown through the week.

The closing event of the campaign will take place next Saturday and this too will be a novelty for Shanghai, for it is to be in the form of a tag day when members of the Student's Union will be posted on all thoroughfares and will appeal to passersby for subscriptions in return for which the donors will be 'tagged' by receiving small silken flags.

RELIEF CANVASSERS ACTIVE

All sections of Shanghai are being thoroughly covered this week by canvassers from the twenty-two relief organisations in an effort to secure additional

CHINA TO URGE SURRENDER OF FOREIGN RIGHTS

Extra-territorial Privileges Galls Peking; Envoys To Ask Annulment

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, March 12.—Despite the oft repeated statement that China lacks national spirit and resultant unity of national purpose, the fact should not be forgotten that she feels keenly her position with regard to the extra-territorial privileges of foreign powers, to which she has been subjected ever since the Boxers kicked up their row in 1900.

An evidence of her mortification over existing conditions is that for sometime China has been contemplating the despatch of official representatives to each of the countries holding such privileges -- England, America, France and Japan, with the end in view of gaining their final abolishment.

In order to submit a clear presentation of the case, and that a definite understanding be arrived at, it is possible that those representatives will be accompanied by the foreign advisors of the respective countries. At the same time, according to the announcement of one of the vernacular papers, the Chinese Government is planning the establishment of a special court in Shanghai to take the place of the present Mixed Court, as a step toward effecting such a judicial system that there will be no excuse on the part of foreign powers for not releasing their present extra-territorial rights.

STEVENS TELLS WHY BANKS ARE IN CONSORTIUM

Explains What Must Be Done To Make Loan Securities Saleable

Frederick W. Stevens, speaking for the American bankers in the Consortium, addressed a gathering of about two hundred Chinese at the Peking Teachers College, Saturday evening.

Mr. Stevens said that the land tax is not contemplated as a security and was never seriously considered and he explained how a contrary report got into circulation. He also stated that loans for administrative or political purposes would not be made. He said that the Consortium agreement and two letters, all of which have been printed in full in the newspapers of China and which speak for themselves, cover all agreements, written or unwritten, between the different groups and that on some other occasion he would take time to go into this subject fully.

He spoke at some length upon the terms and conditions upon which the American bankers would consider participation in a Consortium loan to the Chinese Government for constructive purposes, if it should be desired. He said there are a few facts and a banking principle that govern this subject. One fact is that the American bankers do not need to come to China to find opportunities to purchase good securities, and that the American bankers are not now and never have been urging a loan upon China on any terms; that they are not seeking concessions nor big profits.

ASKED BANKERS TO HELP

They are represented in China now and the Consortium plan is being presented, he said, because the American government itself, speaking for the American people and with most friendly motives toward China, requested the bankers to be so represented, with a view of joining the other foreign banking groups in the Consortium in giving the Chinese government an opportunity, when political and other conditions permit, to borrow money in large amounts for constructive purposes on terms that will be reasonable from China's standpoint and that will make the Chinese government bonds saleable in the American investment market.

Mr. Stevens said he would try to convince the people in China, little by little, that the American bankers are not trying to put through any bad scheme, that they have only the friendly motives openly expressed and that if it should turn out that China does not wish to have American financial help, in building important railroads or great highways—for example—especially if she can find ways to build them with Chinese money only it will

LAW DRAWN TO COLLECT REPARATION PAYMENTS

Purchasers Of German Merchandise To Settle With Customs

BERLIN PROTESTS

Reichstag, By Vote Of 268 To 49, Sustains Dr. Von Simons

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 12.—The Allied Conference has concluded its sittings.

London, March 12.—The text of the German Reparations Recovery Bill, which is published today, provides that the purchaser shall pay the Commissioners of the Customs and Excise such proportion of the value of imported German goods, not exceeding fifty percent, as the Treasury shall prescribe. The Commissioners will pay the money into a special account to be used towards the discharging of Germany's obligations under the Treaty of of Versailles.

The act applies to all German goods whether they come direct or not, with the exception of goods imported for exportation after transit through the United Kingdom or by way of transhipment. The Commissioners will fix the value of the goods and any dispute in this connection will be referred to a referee appointed by the Treasury. The Commissioners may require the importers to furnish particulars regarding the country of the manufacture or production of the goods.

Should the Act threaten hardship in the case of contracts arranged before March 8, application may be made to the High Court to secure the suspension or the annulment of any proceedings for the enforcement of these contracts. The Board of Trade may reduce the payments to the Commissioners or exempt certain goods on the recommendation of a committee of experts which the Board will appoint.

BERLIN TO "PERSIST"

Berlin, March 12.—The Reichstag today debated the proceedings of the London Conference, and finally adopted, by 268 votes to 49, a Coalition resolution, endorsing the Government's action, and supporting the Government's "persistance in the rejection of unfulfillable demands," notwithstanding the Entente sanctions.

Dr. von Simons, the foreign Minister, said the Government must strive to find a middle path that would enable the submission of counterproposals on a different basis.

London, March 12.—The London Conference today received the Austrian Chancellor, Dr. Mayer, who dwelt on the cruel privations of the Austrians and the necessity of procuring coal and foodstuffs. He thanked the Allies for their help in averting starvation but contended that Austria had not been given a fair chance to carry out the conditions of the Treaty of St. Germain. He mentioned that the direct taxes in Austria had increased eightfold since July, 1920 and the customs duties seventyfold, but nevertheless there was a deficit of forty-two milliards of crowns, chiefly due to the State subsidies for food. This deficit, he said, would disappear if foodstuffs could be obtained on credit, but unless the Supreme Council promised comprehensive help in the matter of credits, Austria was faced with collapse.

EAGER TO HELP

Mr. Lloyd George replied that the Allies were most anxious to help Austria's genuine distress but that they themselves were overburdened by economic troubles.

The document submitted by Dr. Mayer will be examined by the financial experts.

Paris, March 10 (delayed).—It is semi-officially stated that the Rhenish population is acquiescing with perfect equanimity in the Allied occupation which guarantees them peace and order. Business is going on as usual.

Berlin, March 13.—According to a message from Stuttgart, anger at the new penalties imposed by the Allies has evoked a joint appeal from the Wurtemberg chambers of commerce, arguing that business houses and the population generally should boycott British, French and Belgian merchandise until the "objectionable measures" have been revoked.

BILLIONS ASKED IN SUITS AGAINST U.S. GOVERNMENT

Vast Sums Sought By Litigants As Result Of Wartime Disputes

BASED ON CONTRACTS

Cancellations Responsible For Many Actions; Special Court Created

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Feb. 12 (by mail).—Millions of dollars and promises of billions—are represented in the great tide of law suits which is beginning to pour into the United States Court of Claims as one of the results of the world war. The Court was expressly created to determine legal controversies between private citizens and the government.

The Attorney-General says the amount of war claims is enormous and that indications are that the influx of cases has only begun. Actions upon claims involving approximately $124,000,000 have already been filed. The ultimate aggregate of claims, it is estimated, will reach between two and three billion dollars. The personnel of the Department of Jutsice having charge of the defense of these actions has been doubled to enable it to cope with the flood of new litigation.

These war claims are brought into the court by plaintiffs having claims against all departments of the Government. The War Department has claims involving approximately $5,000,000,000. The Bureau of Internal Revenue now has pending claims for refunds and redates aggregating $650,000,000. The Shipping Board has cancellations of contracts involving over $850,000,000. Claims for infringement of patents are estimated by the Attorney General at $100,000,000. The Railroad Administration has differences with the railroads amounting to approximately $750,000,000.

There are also claims proportionately large in amount arising from the Housing Corporation, the War Risk Bureau, and the Food and Fuel Administrations, and it is known that there is a large amount of other claims of a miscellaneous character which have not yet been filed.

Drought Delays Crops In South

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, March (by mail).—The drought in many districts in Kwangtung has not yet been relieved, and the spring sowing is being delayed everywhere. The dry weather has also brought diseases in some districts, notably among children and cattle. As some districts depend on the streams and rivers for transportation, the low water is preventing the carriage of big loads, and a rise of prices in serveral products such as fuel and the like has been the inevitable result. Lack of rain is also affecting the silk producing districts, while sugar, sweet potato, and other crops are also suffering.

Soochow University Notes

The work of the spring term is now in full swing, with an enrollment of more than four hundred seventy, a slight increase over that of the fall term, which was far the largest in the history of the institution.

As was reported by telegraph last week in the columns of the Press, Soochow University defeated Nanking Teachers College in Basket Ball, by a score of thirty-four to thirteen. Having already defeated the University of Nanking, and Hangchow Christian College having forfeited their game, it is now left for Soochow to contest the champion team of Shanghai for the championship of E. C. I. A. A.

In the Tag Day which was held last Saturady, a little less than Eight Thousand Dollars was raised. Of this amount the students of the University collected about one fourth. In this work the students of the mission schools of the city far outstripped those of the government schools.

Mrs. Jno. W. Cline and Miss Mary, wife and daughter of President Cline sailed on March 5 for Europe, where they will spend the spring and summer months. President Cline will join them after the close of school and all will proceed to America for furlough. Miss Mary Cline will enter college in America in the autumn.

It is expected that Miss Martin, of Dallas, Texas, will arrive next week to take up work as a teacher of English in the Middle School.

FAMINE APPEAL TO ALL SHANGHAI MADE IN DRIVE

Following up Friday's successful mass meeting and Sunday's parade, the individual house and shop solicitation started yesterday morning with teams of solicitors visiting every quarter of the city.

Last evening the various workers of the Chinese-Foreign Famine Relief Association reported to the headquarters on the Bund and the bank tellers were busy until late in the evening counting the funds and checking up the receipt stubs. One of the early arrivals who had put in an active day in the French Concession reported over six thousand dollars as his receipts for the first day's work and set this as a mark for his teammates to strive for.

In other quarters of the city, reports could not be secured but the entire personnel of the twenty-two associations is hard at work and the result of their activities this week should save the lives of the many thousands who are now slowly dying of starvation, cold and disease.

PEKING ATTITUDE STRANGE

The failure of the Peking Government to come to the relief of the starving millions is occasioning much concern among the merchants of Shanghai. Should the officials persist in their determination to levy a surcharge on all likin taxes, it will mean a loss of large sums running into hundreds of thousands of dollars to the drive and consequently to the famine relief. That the sums collected from the surtax will not be devoted to saving the lives of the starving is freely declared by the merchants, for it is openly stated that it is the intention to apply this money to road building, administration etc. Such a policy will provide nice incomes for the favored ones who are appointed to this work by the Peking officials but, in the meantime, the absence of grain, fuel clothing and preventive medicines will cause deaths running into hundreds of thousands and possibly millions.

The attitude of these merchants is unfortunate but they take the position that while they would gladly contribute to the cause of saving life, it can hardly be expected they will give once to the Northern government taxed and again to the relief societies for one and the same purpose. One of the leading merchants of Shanghai pointed out yesterday that a cargo of goods going from here to Hangchow is taxed for likin at four points on the way. At the present time the Government is collecting 10 percent on these charges at every likin point and before the goods reach their destination there is an added tax on the tariff of 40 percent.

MERCHANT GIVES ARGUMENT

"You can see," he added, "that the officials are reaping a harvest at the present time and we merchants are being very heavily taxed to pay for it. Well, it only means that such a charge will be passed on to the consumer eventually, for it is my firm conviction that the Government has no intention of ever reducing this tax to its former position after we have once become accustomed to paying it. And that means an advance in the price of all commodities and in the general cost of living."

When asked how much the merchants of Shanghai would be likely to give if it were not for the likin tax, he stated, "At least half a million."

Famine workers estimate that it will require not more than 2 to 3 dollars to carry an individual life through to the arrival of the next harvest, which will be some time in June, and the absence of this sum from the treasuries of the relief societies will mean the deaths of at least two hundred to two hundred and fifty thousand people in the famine regions.

SHANGHAI GIVES $5,000,000

The contributions of Shanghai up to the present time amount to something over five million dollars in money which can actually be traced. In addition to this it is known that other sums have been sent to the North which have not gone through the hands of the relief societies here. Aside from the loan which has been made to aid the work of rescue this amounts to possibly nine tenths and over of the total contributions in China and in view of the generosity of the local people the feeling of resentment at the attitude of the Peking officials in imposing the burden of a surtax on all goods shipped can readily be accounted for.

In the meantime to workers here are not being discouraged by this lack of co-operation but are putting forth every effort to collect contributions up to the very limit and save the lives of all those unfortunates who are perishing through no fault of their own.

NEED ACCOUNTANTS

The Red Cross is in need of three accountants to send to the road-building area and it was stated yesterday that it is hoped that any man, foreign or Chinese, who has had experience in this work will apply to the office at 18B Kiangse Road.

China's total today in the National Famine Relief Drive exceeds $1,400,000 and funds are still coming in. Kaifeng now has more than $43,000, Changsha $32,000, and Anking is just beginning her drive, having issued 7,000 subscription books which are to be distributed among workers throughout the province. Tientsin is still engaged in her campaign, following the Governor's reception on Tuesday. Sianfu reports a total of $12,000 to date.

Because the various relief organisations will need a far larger fund than is now in sight, other countries and districts outside China are organising campaigns.

CAMPAIGN IN JAPAN

Japan is to have a general campaign for funds though the Japanese have already given heavily in the drive and to famine relief generally. Mr. Liu Hei-lien, social service secretary of the Peking Y. M. C. A., is going to Japan to help in the work.

A Drive Committee has also been organised in Harbin and a generous fund is expected from that source.

The Peking subscriptions are being paid rapidly this week, the last to be reported was from the Netherlands Syndicate which pledged $5,000.

The Electricians' Union, at a meeting held Sunday evening, decided to send out a circular letter asking for contributions for famine relief. The contributions, it was stated, will be turned over to the Chinese-Foreign Relief Committee.

TEA DANSANT FRIDAY

The American Woman's Club is preparing to take care of a large crowd at the tea dansant to be given at the Astor House on Friday for the benefit of famine relief.

The former dance given by the Club for this cause was a great success and the General Committee, which consists of the Executive Board of the Club, is making plans which they hope will render this dance even a greater success.

The Astor House has donated the use of the orchestra and ballroom and Miss Alma Adair has volunteered her services in entertaining.

Members of the Club who desire to assist in selling tickets can obtain them from Mrs. R. I. Clapp, 4 Ezra Road. Individual tickets can be secured from Mrs. N. G. Harris, 14 Robinson Road; Mrs. W. Sharp Bardarson, Astor House; Mrs. Mason, Astor House; Mrs. T. W. Sleeman, 14 Medhurst Road, and Mrs. C. M. Wentworth, 53 Yu Yuen Road.

"Eyes Of Youth"

A Denniston Players' Success

The Denniston Players open at the Lyceum Theater on Wednesday next for a short season when the play "Eyes of Youth" will be presented. It will be repeated on Thursday night and a special Matinee performance on Saturday will be given. The following clipping is from the Manila Bulletin:

The Denniston Players deserve a great deal of favorable comment for their acting last night in the "Eyes of Youth."

The play itself afforded a spendid background for the various parts, and particularly that of Gina, taken by Miss Wanda Howard. Her part was difficult in that three distinct personalities were portrayed in the one character, and Miss Howard starred in the last of the three, clearly bringing out characteristics of a dope fiend. She was well supported by other members of the cast, and one can give favorable mention to David Belbridge for his acting in the dressing room scene, to Mr. Howard for his part as the Indian crystal gazer, and also to Mr. Wykeham for his acting in connection with the operatic work.

FORD NOW FACES $5,000,000 SUIT

Morris Gest, Stage Producer, Seeks Damages, Alleging Libel And Slander

STARTED IN CHICAGO

May Be The First Of a Series, Attorneys Say—Gest Resents Slurs

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Morris Gest, nationally known theatrical producer and son-in-law of David Belasco, filed a $5,000,000 damage suit against Henry Ford in the Circuit Court of Cook County today.

The suit, based on alleged libelous statements published on Jan. 22 in The Dearborn Independent, Henry Ford's international weekly paper, is the fore-runner, according to the law firm of Schuyler and Weinfeld, of other suits soon to be started in Detroit and elsewhere.

Only the praecipe of the suit was filed today. Gest's attorneys, however, issued a statement tonight outlining the substance of the declaration which will follow.

Both the character of the theatrical manager and the type of his stage productions were discussed in the article in The Dearborn Independent.

The article will be contained in full in the declaration. It said in part:

"The American stage is under the influence and control of a group of former bootblacks, newsboys, ticket speculators, prize ring habitues and Bowery characters. At the present writing the most advertised man in the world of theatrical productions is Morris Gest, a Russian Jew, who has produced the most salacious spectacles ever shown in America—'Aphrodite' and 'Mecca.' It is reported that the scent of nastiness has been so strongly circulated among theatregoers that tickets are sold a year ahead for the Chicago exhibition of one of these shows, the patrons being, of course, mostly Gentiles.

"Now, it is a fair question, Who is this Morris Gest who stalks before his fellow-Jews as the most successful producer of the year? It is nothing against him to say that he came from Russia. It is nothing against him to say that he is a Jew. It is nothing against him to say that, although success has favored him, his father and mother are still in Odessa, or were until recently. Yet, in a recent interview, in which the professional note of pathos was obtrusively present, he lamented that he was not able to bring his parents to America."

The article goes on to make various more or less definite charges against Mr. Gest, but he particularly resents that suggesting that he had neglected his parents.

The suit is filed in the Circuit Court here, Gest's counsel explain, because it is in Chicago that the producer has the most of his property. Whether or not the courts will consider that sufficient reason for their jurisdiction in the case is a mooted question, the attorneys admit.

A number of co-defendants are named in the suit. They are C. J. Ford, E. B. Ford and W. J. Cameron. The last is the editor of The Dearborn Independent.

"Mr. Gest's father and mother are very wealthy and do not need his assistance," said Attorney Charles Weinfeld. "To intimate that he has neglected them is a false and malicious lie. A Jewish boy never forgets or neglects his parents."

Mr. Gest said tonight: "I'll make that Peace Ship Henry pay dearly for what he has said, and more, too, I'll make him eat his own words."

Detroit, Feb. 1.—So far as could be learned tonight, no suit charging libel was filed here today against Henry Ford.

At the offices of The Dearborn Independent, Mr. Ford's publication, comment on the reported intention of Morris Gest to seek damages of $5,000,000 was withheld, owing to the absence of the editor in chief, W. J. Cameron.

Mr. Ford was said to be at his Dearborn home, but he could not be interviewed.

N.Y.K. WILL SELL SHIPS IN BRITAIN

Government, Too, Hopes To Sell Some Of Vessels Awarded As War Prizes

Regarding the present as a good opportunity for the disposal of its older ships, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha is reported to be arranging for the sale of several of such ships in London. The ships to be sold include the Miike Maru and the Wakanoura Maru, both of which are tied up in Yokohama, and the Tenjin Maru, the Etorup Maru, and the Totomi Maru. These are old ships, and the present supply of tonnage in this country is excessive owing to the shipping depression, now is the best time to dispose of them, in the opinion of the company. None of the ships has yet been sold, but it is expected that contracts will be made if the prices are sufficiently low.

The Government also intends to sell some of the former German ships allotted to Japan. Of these vessels, three still stay in England, and it is the intention of the authorities to sell them in that country.

For these decisions the continued depression of the shipping situation is responsible. Not only "shagaisen" companies, or those other than the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, and the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, but even these companies are now considerably affected by the slump. Most of "shagaisen" firms do not have regular shipping lines of their own, and for this reason they are usually more seriously affected by the changes in the shipping situation. In the present case the amount of cargo available is so scarce that even the "shasen" companies, or the three large concerns mentioned, find it difficult to maintain their services. As a result, even the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and the Osaka Shosen Kaisha have come to tie up their ships in some cases, though this policy is to be confined to old ships. As to the "shagaisen" companies, their vessels are being tied up in increasing numbers, and it is said that the Kokusai Kisen Kaisha is bringing 18 large-ocean going ships from foreign waters to tie them up as there are no new charterers nor sufficient cargo to be found for them.

ROSSETER TO BE SHIPPING BOARD HEAD, IS REPORT

San Franciscan Slated For Chairmancy Under Harding, Political Forecast

BENSON OUT MARCH 4

Republicans' Determination To Hold Up Wilson Nominations Evident

Among the first appointments President Harding will have to make, after naming his Cabinet, will be members of the United States Shipping Board. Because of the failure of the Senate to confirm the present members of the Board appointed by ex-President Wilson, the body ceased to function after March 4, when the Sixty-sixth Congress expired by constitutional limitation. All of the present members of the Shipping Board either were appointed during the recess of the last Congress or within recent months, and under the law they may not survive after the expiration of the Congress in which they failed of confirmation.

Admiral W. S. Benson, chairman of the board, went out of office automatically with the other members on March 4, unless confirmed in the meantime, which is not likely, because of the evident determination of the Republicans to hold up all pending Wilson nominations requiring Senate confirmation. While President Harding may possibly reappoint some members of the present Board, which is by-partisan, he is under no obligation to do so.

It is reported John H. Rosseter of San Francisco is slated to become chairman of the Shipping Board in the Harding administration.

Rosseter, if named, will be no stranger to the duties of the office. He was director of the division of operations of the Shipping Board and a trustee of the Emergency Fleet Corporation during the war. He is one of the leading shipping men of the country, being vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and vice-president of W. R. Grace and Co. of New York.

Politically Rosseter is a leading Republican of the Pacific Coast. He was an ardent supporter of Senator Hiram Johnson for the Republican Presidential nomination, but is said to have been the first man at the Chicago Convention to apprise Senator Harding of the fact that he had been agreed upon as the party's nominee.

JAPAN TO HAVE AN 'AIR HARBOR'

Proposed Landing For Airplanes Would Cover An Area Of 100,000 Tsubo

The establishment of a gigantic flying harbor at Urawa, Saitama prefecture, in view of the recent progress of air service in Japan, is under contemplation by the Air Service Bureau, reports the Kokumin.

According to the paper the new airplane harbor will be constructed in the neighborhood of Uwara-machi which is a town 30 minutes' distance from Uyeno, over the extent of about 100,000 tsubo.

"We have been contemplating the construction of an "air harbor" for the convenience of air mails said Major-General Hata, the assistant-Director of the Air Service Bureau to a reporter of the Kokumin.

"The airdome at Kagamigahara in Gifu prefecture is only for the military use, but as the establishment of a gigantic air station with full installments of hotels, hospitals, radio-station and other necessary equipment provided for in the international treaty on air service requires an extent of land over 300,000 tsubo and an enormous sum of money, we are compelled to confine ourselves to the construction of a single station at present which will be established near Tokio.

"The "air harbor" under contemplation, though it will be under direct control of the Air Service Bureau and in time of emergency will be used for military purposes, will be at the disposal of civilian airmen who are at present in urgent need of adequate airdrome. We hope the new air station sent in urgent need of an adequate aeronautics as well as the important station for air mail in Japan."

KOREAN RAILWAY DISCUSSED IN DIET

Slow Progress Of Civilisation In District Due To Bad Communications, Is Assertion

Baron Toshimaru Fukuhara, questioning Governor General Saito of Korea, in the House of Peers on March 4 asserted that the slowness with which civilisation had progressed in Korea was partly due to the failure to extend the Korean Railroad, according to the Japan advertiser. He charged that the administration of the railroad had not been satisfactory since it had been placed under the control of the South Manchuria Railroad. He attributed the unsatisfactory condition of the road to the short time in which the road had been under the control of the new management.

Replying to the counsel of Baron Fukuhara Governor General Saito gave his opinion that the management of this road had been under a certain management for 20 years and that, in his opinion he realised that this period was about to expire. He said that the authorities had not yet decided whether or not to renew the present arrangement. He expressed the hope that sometime the officials would place the road under their own control but said he realised financial conditions made this impossible now.

At this point, to a query on the question of subsidies, the Governor General expressed the hope that the time would come when Korea would be financially independent.

Another important interpellation in the Upper House was directed at Count Uchida regarding appointments in the Foreign Office. Mr. M. Kamiyama said that he felt men of proper ability were not given an opportunity to show what they could do in this department of government. He also raised a question regarding the attitude of officials and a proper division of governmental business. He called for a more up-to-date policy, for the sake, he said, of greater efficiency in the department.

Count Uchida denied that men of ability were crowded out of Foreign Office work. He said that the government had always desired to place the men best fitted for certain work in positions of importance. His chief difficulty, he said, was not in refusing good men, but rather in finding men fitted for this work. Count Uchida maintained that a well strengthened staff in the Foreign Office was absolutely necessary.

KOBE AUTHORITIES PLAN NEW SEWERS

Government At Port Hopes To Install Sanitary Disposal There

Wishing to have a perfect sewer system in the city, the municipal authorities in Kobe have been making an investigation in this respect for some time past. According to plans just made public, the city is to be divided into 20 sections, each having a large concrete sink where the contents are to be pumped out to be delivered to an asceptic tank in the suburban districts. In order to keep the neighboring seawater clean, no system other than this is possible, for which some Y.40,000,000 is required.

During the extraterritoriality days the sewer system in the city, especially in the foreign settlement, was considered one of the best of the Oriental port cities.

Among many important works now being investigated by the municipal authorities in charge of public works, the sewer system is believed to be most important, as it has much to do with the municipal health. As soon as the necessary appropriation is provided, work will be started by the municipal government.

be quite satisfactory to the American bankers.

Another fact to be remembered, he said, is that Chinese government bonds issued for constructing a railroad or a great highway must necessarily be payable many years ahead, even if part payments begin within a few years, and that it is an elementary banking principle that a bank cannot wisely purchase unsalcable long-term securities, whether they be bonds of China or of any other government or of an industrial concern; and that this is true even if the bonds are sure to be paid at maturity. A bank which does not observe this principle will soon cease to be a bank, he said, for want of working capital and for want of knowledge of the proper function of a bank and for want of standing as a prudent concern.

BONDS MUST BE SALEABLE

It follows, said he, that the bankers will buy only such Chinese bonds as they believe will be saleable without much delay and at a reasonable profit, or at least without loss. Nobody will protect them against a possible loss, he said. They take the risk of that when they buy the bonds.

Mr. Stevens then discussed the question, what is necessary to make Chinese government long-term bonds saleable in the American market. Many political and business considerations enter into the answer. The money loaned, said he, must be actually used and wisely spent in ways to benefit the Chinese people at large. It must produce something of value, like a railroad or a highway. The railroad must be located where it is likely to earn more than it costs to operate it. The money must not be spent on unwise plans and specifications. The railroad or whatever is produced, must be built at as low a cost as good management of the construction will allow. While the railroad of the highway, when built, will be the property of the Chinese government, all these matters will concern the lenders as well as the Chinese people. Anything that is good for them is good for the bankers, for it helps to make the bonds saleable to investors. Anything that is bad for the Chinese people is bad for the bankers because it makes the bonds harder to sell. There must also be security for the payment of the principal and interest, to be determined according to the circumstances, so that the American investors who are asked to buy the bonds may never have cause for anxiety as to payment when it becomes due.

But a satisfied Chinese people is an important part of the whole matter, for their good will will go a great way to convince American investors that the bonds will be paid when due, no matter what changes have taken place in the government or who the officials are at that time.

Whiteaway, Laidlaw Sale Brings Out Army Of Shoppers

Store Packed Throughout Day —Lure Of 25 Percent Off— Has Quick Effect

Shanghai shoppers turned out en masse yesterday morning for the opening of an extraordinary sale at the department store of Whiteaway, Laidlaw and Company. Through a portion of the morning not only was the store filled with eager purchasers but the overflow for a time threatened to tie up traffic at the busy corner of Nanking and Szechuen Roads.

The sale is being held to mark the occasion of the visit to Shanghai of the Company's chairman for the first time in more than ten years. It is to continue from yesterday through next Saturday and while it is in progress the store is to be open daily from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening.

The particular feature of interest to shoppers in connection with the sale is the size of the reductions being offered. This is no less than 25 percent over ordinary prices and a cut of a full fourth in the prices of all the varied lines of merchandise carried probably is sufficient to account for the fact that all through the day the establishment was crowded as undoubtedly it will continue to be through the period of the sale.

The construction of the Victrola is so simple, the mechanism operates so accurately and smoothly, the materials and workmanship are of such high quality, that a Victrola seldom needs attention or adjustment.

YANKEE SQUAD IS IN TRAINING FOR ALL CREWS

Twenty-One Men Start After Places In American Boats For May Regatta

HARBOR TRAFFIC HEAVY

Present Congestion May Mean Appeal To River Police For Relief

Twenty-one husky Americans started training yesterday for seats in the boats to represent the United States at the International regatta to be held here from May 21-25 in connection with the interport regatta, which will probably see crews from Hongkong, Kobe and other Far East ports fighting with Shanghai boats.

The Yankees, the first to get into action, sailed away to a flying start yesterday afternoon when Coaches H. P. Sailor and W. E. Sauer outlined the plan of campaign, set forth training regulations and discussed what these young Americans must do if they are going to travel faster by water than their friends from Scotland, England, Denmark, Switzerland and possibly other countries.

The men had a hearty session with the rowing machines yesterday afternoon and Coach Sailor has decreed that entire squad must do some of their work on fixed seats instead of the usual sliding affairs. This work loosens back muscles and increases reach.

It was also made known yesterday that the American crews will not be selected until the boats leave the pontoons for the races and this will be an incentive to the less experienced men. Full boats will train but the personnel will be shifted often enough to insure the ability of a substitute to hop in and serve with the rest of the crew at the last minute.

ROWING CLUB ACTIVE

Of the 21 who showed up yesterday the Rowing Club nets nine new members. The others hold membership in the organisation which is experiencing a new lease of life with the advent of Spring. There is plenty of activity there at this time and the Americans are helping out by starting their training for the Internationals before other nationals.

One difficulty that oarsmen are meeting at present is the congested traffic of the river near the Rowing Club pontoons. The cooperation of the Harbor Police will probably be asked as there appears to be no regulations at present and little attempt to see that boats follow any sort of rules.

Often the number one boy or other experienced boys at the Club will refuse to take out shells because of the apparent danger and several times foreigners have really risked their lives to get the flimsy boats out.

Many of the Americans will devote their time for a period to the rowing machines, however At the meeting yesterday a coaching committee was named as follows: Sailor, Sauer, Ericson Schlobohm, Edwards, Phillips and Core. Other men who attended the session: Phil Crovat, Bill Downs, James, Morrison, Mc Ginty, Kirkland, Boyd, Flint, Mc Hatton, C. J. Smith, Graham Anderson, Emerson and Schneider.

JAPANESE LOSE TO DAVIS CUP MEN

Hardy And Washburn Win Handily From Japanese And American Doubles Teams

Mr. Watson M. Washburn and Mr. Samuel Hardy, alternates at the Tokio Lawn Tennis Club defeated Mr. Nomura and Mr. Iwasaki, Japanese, 6-3 and 6-2 in exhibition games held recently in Japan. They also defeated Mr. Harvey Gilmans and Mr. L. W. Slack, Americans, two straight, the scores being 6-love and 6-1.

Mr. Hardy was compelled to leave the courts early, as it was necessary for him and Mrs. Hardy to go to Yokohama. They sailed for America on the Pacific Mail steamer Ecuador. After Mr. Hardy left, Mr. Washburn played with Tokio players.

Although the courts were in poor shape because of the rain, the matches were featured by several speedy plays. About 100 persons saw the exhibition.

Mr. Washburn left on the steamer Suwa Maru for America.

CANADA IS IN INTERNATIONAL BASKETBALL

Eight Men Available For Quintet To Wear Maple Leaf

Canada will have a fast team in the international basketball series which is due to get under way as soon as the Foreign League completes its schedule.

Westaway of the Standard Oil Company is in charge of the Canadian quintet and says that he has eight or ten men who will be eligible to play. The men will have regular practice sessions and aim to be in good shape to play the American, Chinese, English and Portuguese teams. It is not yet definitely decided that Portugal is to enter a team but the Portuguese representative, Remedios, is working on the proposition.

Among the men who will try out for the Canadian five are Charley Duff and Alf Duff of the American School; Charley Mahon, Geldart, Westaway, Holland, de Scherburnin, who ought to make a crack center; Fletcher, Gulston and one or two others.

Nash of the English team and Zee of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. have been appointed a committee to draft the schedule and make all arrangements for the series.

Tokio March 14.—Keio University defeated Waseda by a score of 6-3 yesterday before over 30,000 people at Shibaura Park. It was the biggest crowd in the history of baseball in Japan. BASEBALL CLUB TO CO-OPERATE WITH OLYMPICS

Will Work With Dr. Gray And Members Of Far East Games Committee

WASHINGTON U. COMING

Collegians From Seattle Will Be Here June First For Big Series

The University of Washington baseball team, which leaves Seattle late this month for a long baseball season in Japan, desires to arrive in Shanghai about June first and the committee of the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club will co-operate with Dr. John H. Gray, honorary secretary of the Far Eastern Games, to bring the collegians here for the Olympics Arrangements will be made as soon as the team arrives in Japan.

Mr. William Pigott, who is handling the collegians, wrote to Mr. J. Harold Dollar here asking that arrangements be made so that the University nine could be here and Mr. Dollar turned it over for discussion at the conference between the baseball men and Dr. Gray yesterday at the American Club.

The session with Dr. Gray settled that the Baseball Club will co-operate with the Olympic authorities in every way possible. Any open series will probably be held at the Race Course and will be under the direction of the Baseball Club although the financing will probably be looked after by the Far East Games committee.

With Stanford and California practically certain to come here and the University of Washington squad buying extra tooth brushes and new travelling bags in Seattle now, there will be sufficient baseball talent here early in June to assure rain practically every day and wet grounds the rest of the time.

Oh, and one more item. The Baseball Club will start its membership campaign the last week in March. It was suggested that the drive get under way on the 15th but the powers have decreed that it must begin on the twenty-first.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in ivilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

GREECE'S FUTURE IS IN CONSTANTINE SAYS MARK KERR

British Admiral Pictures His Return As Will Of A Grateful People

VENIZELOS 'AUTOCRAT'

Personal Ambition Moved Premier's Every Effort, He Declares

(Admiral Kerr, who is an avowed Constantinist, says that Constantine's correspondence with the Kaiser has been grossly misinterpreted. As to the much more difficult to explain dealings of Queen Sophie with her brother he says, "Queen Sophie doesn't matter."

London, Jan. 19.—"The plebiscite in Greece which resulted in the return of King Constantine was not the ingratitude of the Greeks to Venizelos, but the gratitude and fidelity of the Greeks to King Constantine."

This was the statement of Vice-Admiral Mark Kerr to a representative of The New York Herald. Admiral Kerr has had a distinguished record in the British navy and after the Balkan wars and during the first year of the European war he was commander-in-chief of the Greek navy as head of the British Naval Mission to Greece.

"I am of the opinion that if all parties in Greece will now work together, and Greece can obtain a loan, her future is very bright. It is quite certain that a stable Greece makes for the peace of the world. As King Constantine is by character and temperament a popular ruler, and as he is possessed of the most golden quality for success, common sense, and as he is also determined to work in the interest of the Entente, because their interests and those of his own country run side by side, I am convinced that it would be the merest folly not to assist Greece financially to consolidate the position into which she has been placed as the result of the world war.

WOULD ADVANCE FUNDS

"With the exception of Greece, the countries of the Near East are all intriguing to upset the Treaty of Sevres. This treaty was made out after much trouble and thought for a purpose of putting people under the rule of their own nationalities, so as to insure happiness, which is the only guarantee of peace. There may be mistakes in this treaty, but it is quite certain that if you once chance to unravel a part of it in order to change a stitch the whole garment will disintegrate. The Turk is a character that does not easily forget or forbear, and the Greek will have to make a strong bulwark in order to safeguard his possessions across the sea. It comes to this, that if the United States or Great Britain will advance to Greece the money, the peace may be kept in the Near East; if they do not do so, within a short time the pot will boil over again, and who can tell how the conflagration can be localised?

"The Venizelosists must sink their differences, and all combine for the good of the country. They are a constitutional country, and must accept the verdict of the majority, and having accepted it must work wholeheartedly for the Government that is in power until the rough is made smooth and the crooked ways straight. When things are in order and peace is assured, then a good opposition is a good thing in the Parliament, but this must not be attempted at the present moment. If the Entente see a united Greece under King Constantine they will realise that stability has come to the country and confidence will be restored.

"It is claimed for Venizelos that he doubled the size of Greece. This is not the case; it was the Greek armies led by Constantine which accomplished this; and it is for this reason that the Greeks as a nation love Constantine and want him back. The Greek people must not be judged by their tourists or some of their merchants abroad, nor by many people met in some of the seaport towns of Greece itself. Like other nations the Greeks are divided into two main classes—their traders, who can drive as hard a bargain as any man, and the peasants, who are as fine a race as I have ever seen. The peasants almost to a man voted for Constantine.

SAYS KING FAVORED ALLIES

"That King Constantine was against us is absurd. As I have already pointed out elsewhere, the only telegram in which this can be attributed to him was the one in which he said that he would never forget that it was the Kaiser who had given the Greeks Kavalla and his political sympathies drew him toward him. Now let us take an analogy to that. If you are invited to dinner by a man whom you detest and fear, who can ruin your household, your home and your business, you do not write that man an insulting, angry letter. You write a polite note saying how highly you appreciate the invitation, but owing to a previous engagement for that evening you regret that you cannot accept. It is a social lie, but if you do that in social circles how much more must you sympathise with a King who rules and is responsible for a country not of his blood which he sees threatened by a Power which can overrun it from end to end.

"This was the position of Constantine. He was certainly not in favor of Germany. He supplied me with all the information he could. He proved to me from the beginning that Bulgaria was tied to Germany. I informed my Government of this, but they preferred to believe the Minister of Sofia and their own agents, mostly supplied by the Germans, with the result that while we were accepting favors from the Greeks we were trying to bribe Bulgaria with a slice of Greek territory in Macedonia. Certainly not fair play.

"The stories of the Greek Islands being stored with petrol for the German submarines were absurd. Submarines run on heavy oil, not petrol. When they came to me with such stories put around by German agents I laughed at them. It was too silly. But I also sent officers to the spot, who invariably found nothing. From the beginning I was entirely against any of the Balkan States coming into the war at all. And in this connection at the beginning of the war I wrote to Mr. Asquith and pointed out that if we made a declaration stating that Constantinople would be internationalised they would probably stay out. Rumania, Bulgaria and Greece were all afraid of Russia getting Constantinople and keeping it. But Russia would not give up her pretensions.

"I also pointed out what Greece would do and would not do during the war. I showed my letter to King Constantine before I sent it and he entirely approved of it. I reckoned that the entry of the Balkan States would lengthen the war by a year. As a matter of fact, I rather underestimated the period. I knew that the only place from which Germany could obtain oil for her submarines was Rumania. If Greece had been talked into the war when we wanted she would have been overrun by Serbia, and then the Greek Islands would have been German submarine bases and we should have lost every ship in the Mediterranean and the war, because they would have held up the Suez Canal.

"In connection with the entry of Bulgaria into the war the same trick was played there as was afterward tried on us in Greece. Bulgaria was tied to Germany, but when Germany did not win in the short number of months she had hoped Bulgaria began to shy. The Germans were afraid that when ordered to attack Serbia the Bulgarian army would plead tired feet, just as the Serbians had done after the Balkan war when Greece was threatened by a united Bulgar-Turk attack. The German agents, therefore, who were always filling up our people with dope, were instructed to inform us that 3,000 German officers and non-coms were training the Bulgarian army. On this being reported to the Allies Russia was told to present an ultimatum demanding the dismissal of the Germans within forty-eight hours. The Bulgarian Premier replied that he was very sorry he could not dismiss them as they did not exist. Russia then declared war on Bulgaria. The same trick was then tried on the Allies in Greece, but our people had gained the above experience and the plot failed."

KING AND VENIZELOS

Asked as to his opinion of Venizelos, the Admiral said: "Venizelos is a combination of D'Annunzio and Kerensky, and I said this long before D'Annunzio went to Fiume. Everybody thinks of Venizelos as a magnetic, eloquent broadsouled patriot. I thought so for three months; after that I got down to rock bottom. I have told the politicians and statesmen that they have only seen him at the council table on an equality with themselves; they have never served under him as a subordinate. He is out for a greater Greece, and the driving force is his own personal ambition. He wants to see written across the map, "Venizelos Recreated the Ancient Greek Empire." Venizelos promised the Allies the Greek army in Asia Minor and would have promised a Greek army in China if the Allies had asked for it and it would have furthered his policy. He has never kept a good Minister with him. If a Minister tries to run his own Ministry he is kicked out. He does not want Ministers, he wants lackeys. When in a very tight corner moral courage fails him.

"In affairs of war he has no practical knowledge. A battleship is merely a name, he doesn't care whether she has guns, ammunition or anything else at all. He thinks possession of a ship is enough to win the battle. He is an autocrat and cares nothing for justice or anything else as long as he has his own way. He arrested my chauffeur on the word of a Greek army officer. When I protested and said the accusation was a lie (it was something he was supposed to have said to me), he shouted, 'You cannot alter the laws of this land,' and the man was thrown into prison without the semblance of a trial.

"Constantine, on the other hand, is eminently fair. Peasant or courier can appeal to him. There is no favoritism in the matter of justice. During the first Balkan war a regiment arrived ten minutes late at the rendezvous. In a few seconds the spectacle was seen of the King on horseback chasing the unfortunate colonel with a whip, and the colonel bore him no ill-will. He understands the people and feels with them. And this is why he is so popular.

"The war in Asia Minor is not very popular. The Greek peasants do not worry much about Smyrna. They are a people who require some magnetic vision to lead them. History and tradition tell them that when a Greek fleet sails the Marmora, then the Holy Table which the Turks cast into the Marmora will float up and follow the fleet to Constantinople. If, therefore, Constantine was leading them to Constantinople the nation would be filled with wild enthusiasm. But Asia Minor is another question. The Greeks are a people that like to be respected and not bullied. I found that myself, and after my first inspection on the battleship Giorgio Avroff I told the captain to tell his men that instead of casting their heads down they were to stand up straight and look me in the face and show their pride in their service. On my next visit the change in their mien was wonderful. King Constantine respects his men and inspires respect, but Venizelos does not. Hence the reason the masses adore the former and dislike the latter."

Urga Massacre Report Confirmed

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 14.—The latest reports confirm previous statements regarding the massacre of Chinese troops at Urga, and indicate that the original report that 3,500 were slain, falls short of the actual number.

No official report has been received regarding the fall of Taolin, but the absence of news from that place creates the belief that Baron Ungern's troops have occupied it. Many residents of Kalgan have lately come to Peking with their valuables, but the danger of an attack there is not apprehended in official circles.

Meanwhile, Chang Tso-ling and Tuan Kun are asking the Government to establish aviation departments at Mukden and Paotingfu respectively under their independent control.

Removing the Earth's Treasures

In the mine, the passageway to the earth's treasures, man-made machinery is subjected to the severest strain. Lifting the heavy rock to the surface of the earth, bearing it away; ventilating and lighting the deep shafts, pumping them dry of water,—is work that only the highest quality machinery can stand.

That is why Westinghouse Electric Machinery is being used in more and more mines. It gives such unfailing service, offers so many economies and lightens labor in so many ways, that mining companies of all kinds are replacing their old machinery with Westinghouse.

Whatever your electrical equipment may be, if it bears the name Westinghouse you may be sure it will never fail you.

America Turns Audacious Over Yap, Asahi Believes

Report That Viscount Ishii Notified League Japan Would Surrender Something Brings Journal's Comment

Tokio, Mar. 5.—America has become openly audacious in reference to the question of Yap, says the Asahi in reporting comments made in an official quarter regarding the reported statement of Viscount Ishii, in the meeting of the League of Nations Council, which is now being held in Paris. The Yap question is becoming very much complicated in the council. Viscount Ishii is reported to have notified the League that the Japanese government intends to yield to America's demands in regard to the Yap cable lines, only insisting upon the reservation to Japan of the mandatory rights over the island. Whether Viscount Ishii really made such a statement is questioned, no official report of such action having yet been received at the Foreign Office. But judging from various circumstantial evidences the report cannot be denied although there may be some misrepresentation in it, says the Asahi.

LONG ANXIOUS TO CONTROL

America, the Asahi says, has long been anxious to gain possession of Yap island. When the Philippines were occupied, many Americans had advocated annexation of the Yap from the point of view of defense. But the Asahi then repeats the acts of the supreme council May 7, 1919, at which time the mandate over the island was granted to Japan, adding that whereas the formal record of the council did not contain it, the private diary of the secretary of Mr. Lloyd George says that Mr. Wilson agreed to the decision. No statement was contained in the records that the American president wished to reserve the right to voice American sentiment on the question any further. Other nations have not remembered that such reservation was made. It is not proper for America to protest at this late hour on the ground that Mr. Wilson made that reservation, says the Asahi. The League of Nations should ignore the American protest, is the newspaper's opinion.

But England and France hesitate, in view of the international position of vantage which America commands. It is a shameful thing for the two European countries to agree to discuss the question further by requesting America to send her delegates to the committee.

But so long as England and France cannot conduct the work of reconstruction after the war without the American help, as they are dependent upon American capital, it is inevitable that they should cater to the whims of America, the Asahi asserts.

SOME CHANGES SEEM SURE

So long as a consent was given that the question at issue shall be discussed again, the Asahi anticipates that some changes in the agreement as to Yap will have to be made. Regarding the Yap cable lines, America does not want to have any line either those in the Atlantic Ocean or the Yap lines held by any other nation, if it will be considered disadvantageous to America, and she wants to control such lines herself, which is clearly to be imagined, according to the Asahi. Consequently, the journal believes that Viscount Ishii only stated that when American delegates join to discuss the question of mandate, Japan will insist to the end on the mandatory rights of Japan over the island, but may reconsider the cable line question, but that it is not proper to reconsider the decisions of the supreme council of 1919.

The Asahi observes that the Yap-Guam line will be surrendered to America and the rest of the lines internationalised, as was suggested by England, thus disposing of the dispute.

BRITISH PUTTING NEW PALESTINE ON BUSINESS BASIS

Postal And Telegraph Systems Being Rebuilt; Hebrew Is Discarded

London, Jan. 20.—The British government of Palestine tackles the problem of communications with great vigor. The London Morning Post special correspondent reports from Jaffa:

The Department of Posts and Telegraphs has had to build up almost from the foundations. Under the Turkish regime there were as many postal systems as there were powers with the means to bully Turkey. Almost every country that had a religious concession in Palestine took charge of its own mails in the country. Robberies of mail caravans were so frequent that the post was but little trusted. At present the postoffice is far from efficient in the European sense, but it is shaping toward efficiency.

A heavy handicap is the official tri-lingual system, which makes it essential that a knowledge of English, Arabic, and Hebrew should be represented on the staff. The tri-lingual system cannot be applied in full to telegrams—the Zionist request to this effect has had to be refused—for there is no means of transmitting in Morse what is practically a dead language. Telegrams in Hebrew are translated into English or Arabic and transmitted in one of those languages and then translated back.

The sentimental desire of the Zionists to revive Hebrew as a "living" language and the official sanction given to that desire makes many troubles for the Civil Service. The desire is one of sentiment rather than of practical usefulness. There are practically no Jews in Palestine to whom Hebrew is the only, or even the principal, language. The majority of the Palestine Jews speak Arabic normally. A great number speak Yiddish. The number who speak classical Hebrew is small, and to all of them it is a supplementary language. But classical Hebrew is now being taught sedulously in the Zionist schools, and with official help it may revive to a hothouse existence.

The Department of Justice is in charge of a gentleman who, I understand, gave up for it a much more lucrative position in Egypt. He is a Jew and author of a book on Zionism. It is necessary to add that he is subject to fierce criticism by the Arabs. Yet of his ability, his integrity and his resolve to serve justice and the law with a single purpose I have not the least doubt. But it is immaterial how much he multiplies proofs of his fairness. As a Jew and a Zionist he can never win the confidence of the Palestine population, especially in the light of the Balfour Declaration. With that out of the way it would be possible, perhaps, for the Palestiners to admit that Jews should have a share of the administrative posts—the Moslem majority make no objection to the Christian minority having their share.

One concession, I think, to Arab feeling should be made at once in the Department of Justice, and that is to avoid all action except by a Moslem official in regard to the Moslem religious courts. The Moslem priests are very bitter indeed upon this point, alleging that a Jew interferes in things which are purely religious.

The Department of Justice has won already, as I have recorded, a reputation for strict financial integrity. It is also becoming known for zealous and prompt attention to its business. It is a great deal hampered by the fact that few of its British officials speak Arabic, the one language of nine-tenths of the people of the country, and the language which is practically universally understood. The hope that an Arabic-and-English-speaking class of officials would quickly spring up has been rather spoiled by the decision that the country shall be a tri-lingual one, with Arabic, English and Hebrew as the official languages. It is difficult to hope that British officials, at any rate, will ever acquire a real knowledge of two extra languages.

During the Turkish occupation the civil courts were administered under the Ottoman code—a very good code, modeled largely on the code Napoleon. That code is still in force. It is unfamiliar to British lawyers. French lawyers, or Syrian lawyers trained in France, find it easy to follow, as the Ottoman divergencies from the French model are not very considerable. In time the Department of Justice will lay down a new code which will be modeled probably on the Egyptian code, with what modifications are called for by local custom.

President Of Bank Of Taiwan Says Philippines And East Indies Trade Is Bettered

The Bank of Taiwan held a semi-annual meeting of shareholders recently in Tokio with Mr. K. Nakagawa, president, in the chair to receive the board of directors' report on the bank's working for the last half of 1920, one of the most troubled periods in business recently. The chairman declared in recommending his report that the bank was contributing much to the stabilisation of business and finance in Taiwan, Oceanic ports and Japan proper.

Mr. K. Nakagawa briefly outlined the course of finance and commerce in Japan proper during the last half of 1920 in his report, which he gave in the way of opening the meeting. He remarked that Taiwan, or Formosa was affected by Japan proper's crisis and much uneasiness prevailed. The Bank of Taiwan met this adverse situation by lowering the rate of discount, extending its credit and helping local banks finance their clients. As a result, business circles in Taiwan were freed from their uneasiness and anxiety and placed on a sound basis.

Turning to China where the bank is active, the chairman stated that Japan's trade with South China was hit hard by the anti-Japanese agitation and slumps in silver and not a few Japanese merchants gave up their established trade in that part of China, but Japan's trade with the Dutch East Indies, the Philippines and the Straits Settlements developed very much. The chairman stated that 1920's trade with those parts increased by Y. 20,000,000 in round numbers. He gave his account of the bank's help to traders in those parts who were afflicted by a financial crisis last summer. The bank, according to him, gave credit to the afflicted merchants in conjunction with the Hunan Bank and the South Sea Warehouse Company.

According to the chairman, the bank played a great part in stabilising the financial market in Japan and other parts where the bank had its offices and the bank achieved a great success in spite of the great stress of the period.

He recommended the declaration of 10 percent dividends and obtained the meeting's hearty approval and thanks.

The bank's net profit for the period amounted to Y.3,100,325.-24, which, in conjunction with the past term's balance, brought up the surplus for distribution to Y.4,515,488.18. After having written off Y.500,000 to loss reserve, Y.100,000 to dividend equalisation funds, Y.100,000 to special reserve, and Y.125,000 to bonuses the bank paid Y.2,250,-000 as dividends. The balance was up to Y.1,440,488.18, it having been carried forward.

CANADA VASSAL TO U.S., NOT BRITAIN, SAYS MACMECHAN

Gum Chewing Habit Cited By Halifax Professor As One Evidence

OUR SLANG AMERICAN

'Our Nova Scotia Miners Obey Orders From Indianapolis'

Toronto, Jan. 29.—That Canada has fallen into a condition of spiritual subjection to the United States is the amazing indictment formulated by Dr. Archibald MacMechan, professor of English literature in Dalhousie University, Halifax, one of Canada's prominent men of letters. In the current issue of the Canadian Historical Review he describes "Canada as a vassal state," not to England but to the United States, and proceeds to develop his thesis with an abundance of illustration. Here are some samples:

EVIDENCE ADVANCED

Journalism—The Canadian newspaper is built on American lines and is crammed with American boiler plate, American pictures, American comics. American magazines flood our book stalls.

Movies—All our films practically are designed for American audiences; we originate none.

Capital and Labor—A notorious case. Self-determination is a joke. The price of our steel is fixed in New York and our Nova Scotia miners obey the orders of a Vehmgericht in Indianapolis. Much of our industrial prosperity is due to the invasion of our field by the branch factories of American business, not to the initiative of our own business men. Our business methods are all American with the exception of our great banking system.

Universities—Organisation and curriculum, text books, methods, oversight, credits are borrowed from the United States. Greek letter societies, class organisations class and college yells—everything down to the big initial on the foot ball sweater are borrowed directly from American colleges.

Sport—Our own native game lacrosse, is dead. Cricket is exotic. Baseball is everywhere.

GUM CHEWING HABIT

Habits and Customs—"Teddy Bears" became as popular here as in the United States. We have adopted the gum chewing habit, and the automatic chewing gum machine, "that monument of progressive civilisation." Our tailors go to New York to get the latest styles in knobby shoulders and semi-detached trousers with permanent cuffs. All our slang is brought in by American shows; no Canadian ever invents a new slang term. We have imported Thanksgiving Day, "a heathen festival of autumn," Labor Day, Arbor Day, Mother's Day. "As soon as our cousins decide to celebrate Great Grandmother's Day we will uncritically adopt it too." Our children call cents "pennies" and our pretty five-cent silver pieces "nickels" after their ugly American equivalent. Our police badges and clubs are American. Our patriotic buttons—an American idea—are made in Newark, N. J.

In the foregoing indictment Dr. MacMehan scores some bull's-eyes and at other times is wide of the mark. In sport, for example, there is precious little connection, despite a wide popularity of baseball, between Canadian and American sport. It is a lamentation like this that makes an Englishman think that Canada is doomed to drop into the spacious lap of Uncle Sam. And by the same token it is also apt to be misleading to Uncle Sam himself.

The average Canadian does not imbibe his political and national aspirations from the movie screen. Nor does he hanker after the American system of justice, because he adopts a style in overcoats that may be popular on Fifth Avenue, any more than our women imbibe French republicanism when they admire and buy French lace. Dr. MacMechan mistakes superficialities for the soul of the nation.

INTIMATE ASSOCIATION

The wonder is that the Canadian type has been maintained and developed as it has. As Dr. MacMechan points out: "Our domains march together for 3,000 miles. The same speech, the same laws, the same religions prevail on both sides of the border. A standard gauge and common courtesy have made the continent one country for purposes of railway transportation. C. P. R. cars may be seen in Texas, and Omaha and Santa Fe in Cape Breton. Traffic between Canada, and the United States is far easier than between the separate colonies of the Australian Commonwealth. Then our neighbors are many and rich; we are few in the land, and until lately were very poor. Hundreds of thousands of Canadians have been drawn across the border because of the better opportunities of making a living and for making money under the Stars and Stripes. All these things were inevitable and tend to make of Canada nine more States not yet brought formally under control of Washington."

The fact is that Canadian national feeling is much more virile and widespread today than it ever was. Just why Dr. MacMechan reverts to annexation as an implied possibility is not clear.

Historically he points out Canada as a by-product of the United States. There was no revolution until the menace of France was removed from Quebec. The revolution then came and created Ontario and New Brunswick through the migration of loyalists. He recalls that in 1776 Nova Scotia sent delegates to the Philadelphia Congress, that there were tea riots in Halifax and active sympathy with the American revolutionists; that Gen. Cruickshank had trouble with disloyal American settlers in Ontario in 1812.

COMMERCIAL UNION

He said that had William Lyon Mackenzie and Papineau had their way in 1837 Ontario and Quebec would both today be States of the American Union. He lastly submits that, although the Canadian people rejected the national suicide of commercial union with the States in 1891, this end is being accomplished today by the far more subtle means of commercial and social penetration.

Commenting on the foregoing the Toronto Telegram says that sentiment for political union with the United States in Canada today is as dead as the Pharaohs.

This is the prevailing testimony in spite of the invasion of the west by American farmers and of the industrial east by hundreds of American concerns; in spite of the fact that our trade with the United States exceeds that with all the rest of the world, and that American capital loaned in Canada has reached impressive proportions and since exchange rates have been favorable has been increasing by leaps and bounds.

DR. WANG AT HANKOW

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Hankow, March 14.—Dr. C. T. Wang, Chinese delegate to the Peace Conference at Versailles, passed through here today en route for Changsha to help to draft the provincial constitution of Hunan.

KOREANS MEET

A large number of local Koreans assembled on Sunday evening at the Korean Club, in Avenue Joffre, to listen to addresses by Messrs. Eun Ki-su and Cho Wan-ku, who spoke on the progress of the movement for Korean independence. The two speakers are members of the senate of the Korean provisional government. They reported favorable progress of the campaign and urged the local Korean colony to stand firmly together and work for the cause. An appeal was also made for financial aid to assist the "Central Government" to carry on its activities.

THINGS EVERY MOTHER NEEDS TO KNOW

Little ones could easily be saved many of the aches and ills which come in infancy, if mothers would remember three important things:—First, teach your baby regular habits. Secondly, see that his feeding utensils are clean and that he has plenty of fresh air out of doors. Thirdly, keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house ready for immediate use in case baby gets constipated, feverish, or is troubled with indigestion, colic, diarrhoea, croup or teething pains.

Mrs. James Levere, of Spencerville, Ontario, Canada, says:— "I believe Baby's Own Tablets saved my baby's life, and I would not be without them."

Mrs. A. H. Waite, of 1307 Fremont Avenue, North Minneapolis, U. S. A., writes:— "My last baby was sickly from birth and the benefit that Baby's Own Tablets have afforded is simply wonderful. They do all that is claimed for them, and more."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian specific for infants and children, are obtainable from all chemists, also post free at 60 cents the vial, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Direction Generale des Travaux de la Ville de Pekin
Notice to Architects re a competition (with prize) for designs of buildings for a model residential center.
Peking, being the capital city of China with both foreign and Chinese residences, and as the area is so large, all municipal improvements must be built gradually. Therefore it is decided to take the site of the old Examination Hall, bounded on the North by Tsung Pu Hutung, and South by Swei-mo Hutung, covering an area of about 150 Mow, for the building of a model residential center for the residences of both foreigners and Chinese, the central portion of which shall be a public place for rest and amusement. The Main Hall will seat 2,500 people with large restaurant, club rooms, and library. There will be also parks and tennis courts. The remaining portion of this property will be used for three classes of residential houses of two stories, all facing south, with a garden attached to each. All houses are connected with proper roads and provided with sewage connection, and water supply for modern bath rooms. It is hoped that all architects will submit drawings and designs for this improvement. Prizes are provided for the successful architects. An outline of the conditions is as follows:

PRIZES:	1st	$2,000
	2nd	$1,000
	3rd	$500

The architect who is awarded the 1st prize shall also be chosen as the architect for the principal building of the central part.
TIME LIMIT.—Instructions to competitors will be given out between the date of advertisement and March 15th by the 3rd Department of the Direction Generale, daily from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. A registration fee of $5 will be charged. FOREIGNERS TO BE IN KOBE FESTIVAL

Plans For Ceremonies Commemorating Opening Of Port Progress Rapidly

Considering the fact that the present prosperity of Kobe owes a great deal to the foreign business men they are to be invited by the city to participate in the coming municipal celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the port of Kobe to foreign trade. Governor Ariyoshi and Mayor Sakurai have fully agreed on this point. Not only on this occasion, but also in all other future functions to be held by the municipality of Kobe more foreign residents will be invited to attend.

During the coming festival scheduled to be held on March 20, 21 and 22 a large number of local foreign residents will be invited to attend and to take part in the commemoration. The plans for the celebration are already completed and at the recent executive celebration committee a resolution was passed to approach the Navy Department in Tokio asking them to dispatch a warship to Kobe. If this application is granted by the naval authorities, the ship, will be illuminated at night while a free inspection of it during the daytime will be permitted.

Shanghai College Notes

A reception was given to Doctor and Mrs. J. Q. Dealey by President and Mrs. F. J. White at their residence on Saturday afternoon. Among the many friends who responded to the invitations were Judge and Mrs. C. S. Lobingier, Doctor and Mrs. Gamewell, President and Mrs. F. L. Hawks Pott, Mr. and Mrs. Remer, Mr. and Mrs. Ely, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Beaman, Miss Adams, Doctor and Mrs. J. T. Proctor, Doctor and Mrs. Warnshuis, Mr. and Mrs. Lobenstine, Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood, Doctor and Mrs. Hiltner, Doctor and Mrs. Peter, Mrs. Beebee, Mr. and Mrs. Wright.

A few days ago Doctor C. C. Chen, Professor Ling and the other Chinese teachers of the college invited Professor and Mrs. Dealey, and also the remaining foreign members of the faculty and their wives to an excursion to Nantao and a dinner at the Yih Ping Siang hotel. The Dealey's were delighted with the wonderful artificial rock mountain scenery in the Nantao garden, so characteristic of Chinese landscape gardening.

Professor Dealey is here on an extended visit, having left his position as head of the department of Sociology at Brown University in the hands of Professor Kulp of Shanghai College, his former pupil, and is teaching four regular courses at Shanghai College in Sociology and Political Science, in which he is a recognised authority. As might be expected his class rooms are crowded. He has been invited to deliver special lectures at Hangchow, Nanking, Soochow, and other places.

Professor and Mrs. Webster of Shanghai College are going on furlough much to the regret of all of us. Doctor Webster has not been able to regain his strength after the cholera attack of last fall. President White is also leaving shortly for America to attend a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the college to be held in New York. It is not yet decided if his family will accompany him or not.

The Famine Relief Parade, And Its Lesson

By Shen Sze-hua

SUNDAY, the Thirteenth of March, will live long in the memory of the generous-hearted people of Shanghai. For on that day was witnessed in the streets of this city the most movingly pathetic and appealing parade in all history. Members of the chamber of commerce, street unions, guilds and students to the number of over four thousand participated. Hundreds of thousands of sight-seers lined the route of march and were greatly affected by the various floats and features.

Many, however, failed to grasp the idea and the lesson of the parade. They referred to it as "very interesting" and as a "good display." Was that all? If so, then the parade was a failure. It was not designed to be enjoyed. It told the story of how the people of the famine-stricken districts are bitterly struggling to maintain life by eating roots and the leaves of trees and straw, of how parents are poisoning their children to save them from lingering and miserable death by starvation. It was designed to impress all beholders with the terrible need there is for money with which to carry on the work of relief.

The notes produced by the various musical instruments carried by the bands in the parade did not convey the spirit of happiness. The tones were sadly stirring. No one could listen to them and not feel the spirit of an awakening humanity, while the different floats and symbols constituted an impressive and pathetic appeal for generous contributions.

The famine extends from Paotingfu southward more than one thousand li and affects more than 20,000,000 persons. No less a fund than $200,000,000 is required. Foreign and Chinese editors have vied with one another in appeals to the public for support of this great cause until famine relief has become a household topic. No intelligent man but knows now that death has been taking toll of innocent lives by the thousand—this because the famine relief fund is not large enough, is not adequate.

This famine is an unprecedented calamity. There is nothing in history that compares with it. Twenty million Chinese are dying of starvation. Only ten million persons were killed in the great war, over a period of nearly five years. Twice as many are likely to die in China in as many months.

Failure of any person who is able to contribute and does not do so fixes the direct responsibility for one or more deaths on that person. Have the readers of THE CHINA PRESS thought about this grave duty in that light?

Shanghai is the most popular city in China. Residents of this community are considered fortunate above all others. They are surrounded with everything of the best, socially, commercially and industrially. Here foreign ideas meet and mingle with Chinese ideas. So let the foreigners and Chinese here unite in setting the right example to China and the rest of the world by taking the lead in contributions to the famine fund. In short, let the drive be rewarded with a rich harvest of money, so that this wonderfully enlightening parade will not have been held in vain.

EUROPE'S SADDEST CITY

American Woman's Vivid Description Of Suffering In Former Gayest Of Capitals

[From a letter written by an American woman with the Friends' Relief Committee in Vienna.]

Vienna insisted on my coming because I was booked for them. I loved the work at Breslau, and it was a tremendous wrench to get. The German committee ought not to have kept me at all, but if they had not I should not have known about the work in Germany, which I have described before. The work in Austria is very different. Hoover is doing the school children's feeding that is done by the Friends in Germany, and the Friends here are concentrating on children up to 6 years old. They do not have the food cooked and served, but have what are called "depots." The procedure is this: A mother takes her child to a child welfare station and the doctor examines it and puts it into one of three classes of underfeeding. Then the mother gets a ticket with strips for rations for eight weeks which she takes to a depot. Before she goes to the welfare station she goes to the "Brot Commission," of which there are many branches all over the city, and there she gets the "Fursorge Blatt" with which she goes to the Jugend Amt, where the doctor is. The depot is a large room, two-thirds of which is cut off by a line of tables or a counter. Behind the tables sit five Austrian women and behind them are boxes of supplies—cocoa, flour, fat, sugar, condensed milk and soap—enough to keep a child for two weeks. The first woman compares the ticket with the Fursorge Blatt, the second writes the amount. The mother is to pay on the part of the ticket that is to be cut off.

The prices differ with the age of the child. The third cuts off the coupon, the fourth puts it into a box and the fifth tells the two women at the next table how much the woman has paid, and one of them counts the packages into the bag the woman has with her. Everybody pays three kronen as a minimum. If they pay no more the card is called a gratis card. War widows, women with husbands who are 75 percent invalid, or two very undernourished children in one family, get two cards, one gratis. The pay cards vary from about 60 to 78 kronen. What they pay is about one-eighth of the market price and really only pays for the cost of transport. In a way it is like a huge grocery store where people are allowed to buy once a fortnight. They buy things that they cannot get in the shops, or things that would be too expensive to buy. Condensed milk costs 60 kronen in the shops, and in the depots the women get three cans for 27 kronen. A kronen used to be about 20 cents. Now one gets 500 kronen for a dollar.

About 40,000 people buy in twenty-three depots. The worker is entirely responsible for two depots in different "Bezirks," one open two afternoons, the other three afternoons, a week. She sees that the depot is supplied with food, has control of the Austrian committee of helpers, decides all disputed questions and keeps in touch with the women. She is also the connecting link between the depot and the welfare centers which furnish the depots with their clientele. They mean to open for another 10,000 children in outlying industrial districts. The mornings are spent in visiting families to whom gratis cards are granted and other special cases. That is the biggest work here, but I am much more interested in the Mittelstand (means class). You know how great the class distinctions are here—that they cannot even be interviewed in the same place. The Mittelstand includes Majors and Colonels, and it is pitiful to see men who would not have been seen carrying a parcel before the war glad to drop cans of condensed milk into their pockets and to carry cocoa and sugar and things to their starving wives, and to buy second-hand clothing. Their clothes though shabby still have a decent cut, and they look highbred and so suffering. Almost everything they owned is pawned or sold. I wonder more of them don't commit suicide. There is absolutely nothing ahead of them.

A Colonel 76 years old with a 72-year-old wife came in while I was in the Mittelstand relief office this last week and somehow reminded me of my father and felt I could not bear it. The work here is so directly with the people that one realises the suffering more here than one does in Germany, and it is more hopeless. Vienna is allowed only 200,000 tons of coal which come from Upper Silesia. We are allowed a fire all day Sunday, but the rest of the week if we wish to be warm and comparatively comfortable in the evening we must stay in the office on the Singerstrasse. Our food is sent from England, and if we can manage it we must take luncheon and dinner at the Singerstrasse.

The people get a loaf a week for a small family, and they are allowed seven pounds of coal a day for one stove. The suffering and starvation are unbelievable, the housing conditions hideous. I saw one small room with two beds and a couch, and eight people including a ten-year-old child slept in the room in the basement. The out-of-work problem is terrific. The factories cannot work without coal. The Reparation Committee sits and sits, and the Austrians pay for it and nothing happens. America, Sweden, Switzerland, England, Holland are all giving a dole, but one feels that the city is dying. All the old gayety is gone from the streets, though theaters and operas are in full swing. Workers here say that a man will spend his last krone for standing room at a concert and then go home to die of starvation.

In Germany there is even less food than here, and the clothing and especially the shoe problem is worse. But the Germans have a stiffer backbone and they have some coal, so that their industries have not gone so completely to pieces, and they have hope of ultimate recovery, though they will go through deep waters before things get better. They will have a terrible Winter and will need all the Friends can do for them.

Yesterday Dr. Buschbeck, the curator of Vienna's art treasures, took a party of us through the Lichtenstein Gallery. It was a wonderful experience to see the old masters and other treasures under his guidance. He spoke with great sadness of the treasures taken by Italy, and of the ones they still want to take away. He is a very well-to-do man, living in a beautiful, huge apartment, of which he and his family can occupy only two rooms and a kitchen because he cannot get coal to heat it, and there is a young baby in the family. He says there is coal only for two weeks in Vienna. No one knows what will happen after two weeks. The street cars may have to stop. Electric light and gas are strictly rationed, too, and if one uses too much they are shut off. Can you imagine all New York hungry and shivering? I was in a hospital of about one hundred and fifty beds, only for children suffering from underfeeding. I won't harrow you with descriptions of ricketty children, but it is a joy to see what wonderful operations can be done to make crooked children straight. Vienna was always famous for its hospitals. Through gifts from many countries this hospital can feed up the children before they have operations, and can keep them until they are strong enough at least to try to hold their own after they leave the hospital.

I am beginning to think that comfortable America must be a dream. Nobody over six years can get a drop of milk here. What there is rationed by the doctor like medicine. Butter naturally does not exist. I eat bacon fat when I can get it. The Friends have bought about 350 cows from Holland, but you can see how little that can do. The hoof and mouth disease is raging among the Austrian cattle, but has not yet touched the Friends' cattle, which have all been inoculated. I asked one little undernourished boy of 11 years, whose mother has seen better days and whose father is dead, what he would like for Christmas. I have had some money given to me for that purpose. He answered at once, something to eat, and when I asked him what, he said milk, meaning condensed milk.

Our offices are in an old palace. We live in an elegant apartment, six of us, four English and two American women, up five flights of stairs and elevator not running.

Paradise Bend

Paradise Bend. By William Patterson White. Frontispiece by Ralph Pallen Coleman. Garden City, N.Y.: Doubleday, Page and Co.

F. Marion Crawford once wrote that the province of the novel was to entertain, "Paradise Bend," by presenting a lively story of Western gun-play days, fulfills this requirement. The author is no stylist, but he knows thoroughly the country of which he writes, and he has, at least subconsciously, adopted for his literary motto, "Action speaks louder than words."

"Paradise Bend" is overflowing with action. The story (and it is a story), complex in detail, is quite simple in its entirety. This is a gift more desired in the America of today than nuances of style. By no possible chance could any mind but that of a Westerner produce such a story.

The author knows his characters, which he has localised successfully in a manner that makes his reader know them too, Kate, daughter of "Old Salt" (short for Saltoun), Tom Loudon, Sheriff Block, "Scotty" Mackenzie and the many other characters are, if not delicately, at least vigorously drawn and substantial human beings.

What "Paradise Bend" lacks in literary finish and pretensions to intellectual pabulum it replaces with a plenitude of skill in construction and dialogue. The gradual gathering and the sudden culmination of the evidence against the crooked eighty-eight ranchers is a fine surprise to the reader—and yet is absolutely plausible. In one respect the story is obvious; from the moment Telescope Laguerre, the half-breed, has declared that he is searching for Pony George, instinctively the reader knows just who Pony George is and what his end will be. Aside from the "Pony George" strand of the narrative, "Paradise Bend" succeeds inclined critic should count the fairly well in avoiding cheap melodrama. If any statistically shots fired within the covers of the book or the number of killings, let him be reminded of "Hamlet." Besides, such is the nature of the story.

Especially commendable, and even remarkable in this story, is the naturalness of the dialogue. It is because the author has observed so well the manner of speech which he reproduces that he stands in small need of elaborate psychological analyses. He can almost dispense with descriptive clauses thrown in with the dialogue.

Altogether, "Paradise Bend" is an exceptionally good entertainment, not so much because it is carefully constructed as because it holds the mirror up to the cowboy West and reflects clearly a scene never ceasing in activity or interest.

Double Life

Double Life. By Grant Richards. Dodd, Mead and Co.

"Double Life" must, in some measure, be regarded as a novel of racing life, although the author is careful to intimate that the meat of the book is contained in the characterisation and doings of Olivia Pemberton. Olivia's interest in the racing world, however, is the whole story and, while one is concerned less with the horses themselves than with the woman, the track becomes a protagonist in the book. Another theme closely related to racing, which enters largely into the action, is betting.

When one looks back upon the field of racing fiction it will become speedily apparent that first-rate books inspired by the sport of kings are extremely rare. The multitudinous novels of that prolific English writer, Nat Gould, appear as an average type of what is being done for the race-track in fiction. Of course George Moore's "Estha Waters" stands out as a brilliant indictment of betting, but it may hardly be proffered as a racing novel. It is rather the Zolaesque study of a woman, and done in a manner that few English writers would attempt, or, for that matter, care to attempt. Mr. Richards's novel is not to be taken too seriously and perhaps it is unwise to suggest comparisons for it. First of all, it is a romance, pure and simple. Secondly, it is an oblique study of the extravagant feminine temperament.

The ability of Grant Richards to write a story that retains its interest well has been demonstrated before, and in this particular book it is again manifested. The story starts simply enough. Geoffrey Pemberton is an author, a man who writes popular novels, and when the story begins he is about to go down to Limekilns, where famous race horses are being trained, in order to imbibe some atmosphere for a racing novel that he is at work on. Olivia, his wife, goes with him, and is vastly interested in the horses she sees. Remembering their names, thoughts of betting come into her mind and it is not long before she has secretly opened a betting account with a firm of bookmakers. Her luck varies at first, but eventually she secures enough to buy a race horse with. Captain Cartwright, a trainer of racing horses, manages her horse for her. The book carries her through a deal of intrigue, for she carefully keeps her racing experiences a secret from her husband. How she comes out a financial winner concludes a story that is always interesting but occasionally a little surprising.

What characterisation there is in the book is lavished upon Olivia and Captain Cartwright. Both personages are well rounded and live for the reader. The book will prove entertaining, but hardly more than that.

POLITE AND PRACTICAL

Koo, the Kurteous Koolie, was standing down on the Bund yesterday, waiting to keep an appointment with Gasoline Gus, when a foreign lady, apparently from an outport, approached him.

"Boy," she said, "My wanchee go Astor House side chop chop. You talkee how can do."

"Madam," replied Koo, sweeping her a manificant salaam and pointing, after he had straightened up, to the young idlers who were enjoying their post tiffin cigarettes at the Coolie Club opposite the Palace Hotel, "I would suggest that you engage one of yonder rice hounds, any one of whom, I feel sure, would derive great pleasure in executing a commission to convey you safely, comfortably and speedily to the hostelry you mention, and for an honorarium of only....."

Before he could finish his little speech the lady fainted, whereupon Koo, true to his instincts of a gentleman, but not forgetting which side his bread is buttered on, summoned a Central Garage hire car.

Which vindicates the wisdom of that enterprising garage company in employing an advertising expert who is polite as well as resourceful.

TELEPHONES

Speaking of telephones—
Not through them—
It isn't done in Shanghai:
At least not often.
Wathell
Or words to that effect
Are heard more often
Than "Thanks." But, even so,
The telephone is great
And has cut down
A lotta shoe bills
Tho' if it's true
It's promoted profanity.
Bad as it is—
And, we of Shanghai,
Can't say much for its favor—
The funny little box
With aggravating fixtures
Does do a lot
And is an aid
To Progress.
While we in our wrath
Wish it were gone
To Hades
We'd be sorry if it did.

WHY SHE WAS DELAYED

Which brings to mind the little yarn about the telephone girl in the small town Exchange. Her spare moments were devoted to the switchboard. Her real job was at the counter of the country grocery-postoffice-clothing "Emporium."

The Switchboard had been buzzing insistently for five minutes. Eventually, the girl answered the call.

"Hello," she offered.

"What the—, where have you been," demanded the irate subscriber. "I'm in a rush to get Eph Johnson on an important deal."

"Don't worry," calmly advised the fair one, "I've just been selling Eph a postage stamp to put on a letter telling you he'd buy that calf—and he gummed up the letter so strong it took a long time to steam it open."

AN APPEAL IN A WORTHY CAUSE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—It is the intention of the St. Joseph's Catholic Association to establish an Institute and Home for Sailors of all nationalities, including men on the warships, where wholesome food, refreshments, recreation and sleeping accommodation may be secured at a minimum expenditure. Although this Institute is to be run under the auspices of the above Association, it will be open to sailors of any creed, and everything will be done to make the place attractive and keep the men out of the low-class bars and brothels with which the neighborhood abounds.

Suitable and commodious premises have been leased in Boone Road (a few doors from Seward Road), and application has been made to the Municipal Council for a tavern license. The sale of liquor will not be made with a view to money-making, but merely to enable the Institute to compete with other places which are not conducted in the interests of the seafaring men who frequent them. In other words, the sale of liquor is designed to provide an attraction to an institution whose sole object is the moral and physical welfare of those for whom it caters, and so to keep them out of mischief in other directions. The Institute will be supervised by a strong Committee appointed by the St. Joseph's Catholic Association, and it is proposed to engage a foreign resident superintendent.

On behalf of my Committee, may I appeal to the generosity of your readers for gifts of old but serviceable furniture, fittings, crockery, cutlery, plate, glassware, bedding, oilcloth, pictures, books, games, etc., etc. suitable for the Institute and Home. We shall be very grateful for any gift, however small, and I shall be only too pleased to collect the articles if the givers will kindly send their names and addresses to me at THE CHINA PRESS, No. 41 Canton Road.

As soon as the Institute is open, we shall welcome visits from anyone interested in the work.

Thanking you for your courtesy in granting me the space for this appeal,

I am, Sir,
Yours faithfully,
HAROLD C. NORMAN,
Chairman.
Naval and Merc. Marine Committee,
St. Joseph's Catholic Association.

Making School Worth While

BY DR. WM. A. McKEEVER

(Professor in the University of Kansas and a Noted Educator.)

Some one must constantly coach your high school boy or girl if this young learner is to get through with a commendable degree of success. With the multiplicity of present day diversions on the outside, you have no right to expect the inside school machinery or management to be adequate for complete educational guidance of your child.

Wherefore, undertake from the first a rigid but generous system of home coaching—rigid in that it requires the learner habitually to come up to a reasonable and regulated programme; generous in that it gives full allowance for the exercise of his interest in play, amusement and sociability.

It is cheering to notice how quickly a high school youth will fall into a habit of home staying and home study, provided he be treated fairly in regard to his other interests. Even though you might not be able to "pass" in a single subject of his course you can coach him in the sense in which we mean to use the term here, and your help will prove most valuable.

Ask him to enumerate the lesson topics of the day and to explain what he is trying to get out of them. Sit by his side rather as a learner than a teacher. Determine what points or problems are proving difficult to him. Then, if you see no immediate means of assistance, quietly telephone his teacher during the boy's absence and thus learn just what might be done to assist.

You may be asked to secure a certain library help, to give more opportunity for a certain study, to encourage your child in a certain manner, and the like. It is often the little commonsense helps which count for most here.

Now, have your child discuss, one by one, his several teachers. Ask every manner of question about their appearance and method. If he feels ill-disposed toward a certain instructor, if the pupils are making fun of her personality, or if he dislikes her for any other reason—that is strictly an educational problem and one for your system of coaching to take up. Often, by means of a brief inquiry about a disliked teacher, you may show her character to your boy in an entirely new light and give him a genuine sympathy for her point of view and her method. It is entirely a fair assumption that this teacher is a high-minded, praiseworthy woman.

Discover the real worth in her life and make that clear to your child. You may thus directly assist him in mastering his lessons, and you may possibly do even more: that is, show him how to find the better side of a personality which at first seems not especially pleasing to him.

Finally, be it known that I am appealing to the great common parent type, the busy work-a-day men and women, who are trying to school their children. Learn to coach the young minds as well as try to curb the wild dispositions.

Do not wait for trouble to arise and then cry out in despair. Sit in with your child as a sort of happy school fellow and learn from him as well as guide him onward. It will all prove a happy game.

"Yes," said the eminent specialist to the poor man who had called upon him, "I will examine you carefully for ten dollars."

"All right, doctor," said the man, resignedly. "If you find it I'll give you half."

Mr. B. Baer

ANOTHER BLUE AMENDMENT

The ten gentlemen reformers of women's clothes who designed a model flapper's dress have forgotten an important detail. They each ought to buy one of their creations and wear it.

The new frock is built on the svelte, daring lines of a wet burlap bag. The neck is designed to keep the ears warm and the hem of the skirt falls six inches below the heels. The waist is embellished with bright embroidery of rusty buttons and is set off smartly by a necklace of Smith Brothers' cough drops.

A touch of daring is lent to the frock by a brilliant black crepe draped in a Please-Omit-Flowers style. The lines are as beautiful as a tugboat. A wagonload of empty barrels will look like a limousine loaded with Fifth avenue models.

Now, the ladies can get even by designing men's clothes. What is soup for the goose is consomme for the gander. At present there are two sexes in America, and the feminine would be the vainest if it weren't for the male.

Make the boys wear potato sacks and Congress gaiters for a while and hear them publish a squawk that will roll through the valleys and reverberate on the mountain sides.

The trouble with reformers is that they think the whole army is out of step because they themselves started out on the wrong foot. And the first thing they pick on is a beautiful, frail woman who has but one vote and who screams pitifully for help as she knocks her husband cold with the leg of a chair.

Don't pick on the unreasonable sex. Take away the nourishing wood alcohol from the men, if you can, deprive the boys of their nicotine tonic, but don't harm that blond hair on the old gray head.

Woman is a beautiful, delicate flower in the garden of life, and any miscreant who steps on it will sprain his ankle.

Parisian Ended Life So Wife Could Live

Pathetic Story Of Retired Couple Is Revealed; Widow Crazed

Paris, Jan. 19.—For years M. Petitcolan, a retired clerk, 62 years old, and his wife had been trying to live on their meagre savings in a room in the Rue St. Medard, which is in one of the poorer residential districts of Paris. They had hardly enough to eat, but being too proud to let their condition become known they struggled on. Then came the war and the rise in the cost of living, which for them meant only one thing—starvation.

The husband denied himself almost everything that his wife might have a little more food, but even this sacrifice could not provide enough to keep her normal. Gradually her mind became unbalanced. Apparently he did not know this or perhaps his mind became affected too. At any rate he thought he could help her by doing away entirely with one of the mouths that had to be fed. So while she looked on, he tied a rope to a hook in the ceiling and hanged himself. For three days she continued to live there with the body. Then suddenly she ran screaming into the street. The police came. The woman was taken to an asylum.

JAPAN'S DEBTS THREE BILLION YEN

BILLS TOTAL 50 MILLIONS

Foreign Indebtedness Decrease Four Million Yen—Domestic Loans Up 48 Millions

Japan's national indebtedness at the end of January is reported by the Government as somewhat bigger than at the end of 1920. The increase is found entirely in Japan's domestic obligations. The country's foreign loans were a little less than at the end of 1920.

The total of Japan's borrowings at the end of January reached Y3,159,425,208.38 against Y3,115,038,383.38 at the end of 1920, an increase of Y44,386,825. There was besides, Y533,217,400 representing extraordinary exchequer notes, which was a decrease of Y100 as compared with 1920's close. The total of Treasury Bills not included in both of the foregoing figures reached Y50,000,000,000, which was an increase by Y20,000,000.

Of the total Y1,424,388,332.88 was Japan's foreign indebtedness, a decrease of Y3,905,200 compared with December. This decrease was caused by the redemption of old railway bonds to that amount in London during January.

The total of domestic loans reached Y1,735,036,875.50, which was an increase Y48,292,025. During January the Treasury floated two 5 percent loans and caused this increase.
